I wish I had known you were never coming back when I watched them load up up in that ambulance and I handed you your shoes I would have told you how much I love you instead of how I'd see you when you got back I will never forget those words u said to me before you left me that day neither one of us knowing forever would be how long you were going away I'm mad at you for leaving me here alone I'm mad at myself too just as much as I'm mad at you bc I wish I would have done more even knowing I did the best I could do but I want you to know I miss my brother my best friend you were always an angel in my eyes and now that you've got your wings you are my angel helping God guard me from the skies against the devil and all his lies I'm comforted knowing we are always together till I can get to heaven too bc I made sure our brother Jose burried you with the knife I got you right before they put you back in Gods hands and your mothers arms too I always remember and never forget bc your not just my family my brother my friend your mine and my childrens guardian angel just one of the many chosen few and bc we also nicknamed my oldest son demo too his grandpa Jim gave him that nickname long before destiny brought us together and I met you remember to save a spot for me until I get there too your love lives on forever and in my heart of beating memories along with the pain of you leaving me until I can come back home too as long as my hearts beats so I can live with every beat of my heart your love lives and so do you sweet memories flow on the breeze like the leaves on the cotton wood trees sweet as the comb from the honeybees
