“ For you mom on this mothers day.....

“ Donna was my sister and best friend. We could tell each other anything! We had a bond that distance nor time can ever touch. She was the kindest sweetest soul I've ever known. I can close my eyes and hear her laugh. Her love for her family was her drive. Her everything. She didn't have much, but she had all the riches of a loving family. We shared a song way back called "Purple Rain" by prince. I tried downloading it last week, but the video had errors so I deleted it. I was looking in my downloaded pictures yesterday and found Purple Rain there between the pictures Frank took of us visiting Donna in the hospital. It played... I don't know how it got there, it wasn't there before. I'm taking it as a sign that she's watching over us. And she's okay. Really okay. The memories that she made with us, we'll always have and her love and laughter will be with us everyday. It is a part of us that helped make us who we are. I love you my baby sister and I will miss you. But we will see each other again. Until then, you will be in my heart and you will be remembered. Love you always my beautiful sister.....

“ I remember when mom would stand behind us and use our arms to make a cup of coffee. Our arms were so limp. You had to see. It was funny. I miss you ma....

“ There are so many memories with Donna but every one is a good one.
She is the reason I drink coffee, she was shocked when we met that I didn't drink coffee, she called me un American and made me my first cup. I loved her so much and still do.

Susan Disbrow - May 05, 2016 at 05:08 AM

“ How about when mom was in the hospital and Diana tried to take her cup of coffee because she was falling asleep. She opened one eye and said that's my coffee. That was funny....

I was about 15 and all of you were pretty small. I came to visit when you were all living in Charleston. Seems like just yesterday. She was trying to help me get through some teenage crap. She reminded me of Mom, but cooler because I could tell her anything. She helped me so much.
