“ Though I did not grow up in Rhode Island, I was fortunate enough to be around Shannon when we were really little and being babysat by Auntie Irene and when we were still young but fully grown when we all gathered to be there when Auntie Irene passed on. We are around the same age and they seemed to me like the sisters I never had. The love and light that the sister all have individually and together had an effect on me and reminded me of how unfortunate it was that I didn't get to develop our relationship. Nothing about the legacy as a toucher of lives surprises me from her Bio. It doesn't surprise me that she was with a man she loved for 29 years, and that she had who I am sure are beautiful children with him, along with touching the lives of other's children with her commitment two two decades of teaching. I am sorry that she had to fight and struggle for years to stay here, and I am so sorry for her husband, her children, and her sisters and the many other people that I am sure were close in orbit with her. But as sad as it is that she has passed on, she is never truly gone because she left pieces of her with all of us that will remain forever.

“ My sister Shannon was the best middle sister ever. She was a shining light in this world a loving wife devoted mom kind-hearted Christian educator and so much more. She leaves a hole in my heart that memories now fill. Memories of playing dolls, Barbies, Atari and better yet getting each other into trouble. Soar with the angels and keep watch over us. I'll always be your little sis ❤️
