“ As a coach for his children, it was always a great example that he gave because he was happy for them to have the opportunity, regardless of success; they were loved and encouraged. Thom loved being a part of their world and watching things that challenged them so he could encourage their growth and seeing the joy on their faces when the felt good about their hard work. He was a great Dad and I firmly believe God has planted the seed and taught the girls how they can now rely on HIM. It is a hard way to learn but such an honor that Thom could show His Father's love
